Former Resident Asks Whereabouts of New Hope Classmates

MAIL: "Harrisburg Chronicle or Its Successor," the letter from Covington, Okla., started.

So The Daily Register of Harrisburg got the letter from B. R. Jenkins, who wrote:

"It has been many a day since the last letter I headed as this one is headed.

"I was one time Chronicle pencil pusher from the old New Hope district west of Galatia and gave all the news happenings from that section through all the gay nineties.

"Then suddenly I met a fine little girl from the Yellow Foot district on Feb. 1, 1909, and on April 9 following we hid away to Harrisburg, as the Yellow Foot reporter put it, and there we were married in the old court house by a justice of the peace named H. D. Baumgartner. To say he did a good job is but putting it mildly as you see we are soon to celebrate our 54th most happy anniversary.

"In going through some of my old papers a few days ago I came upon a copy of my old schoolmates at old New Hope with Auda Garrison as the teacher. At that time he was but 22 years of age.

"As I scanned that list the thought came to my mind after these 56 years: I wonder who is living and where are they today? So I wrote off the list and do hope you can use it as an item."

Here are the names of the pupils at New Hope school in 1898 as given in the letter:

Ralph Atwood, Herbert Atwood, Herman Abney, Claud Fletcher, Elvis Abney, Lawrence Fletcher, Henry Clark, Everett Tuttle, Harvey Milligan, Stanley Atwood, Randall Milligan, Oscar Clark, Thomas Sanders, Ecland Abney, Edmund Fletcher, Milledge Clark;

Father, Three Sons Seek $33,700 In Damage Suit

A father and his three sons, living north of Eldorado seek a total of $33,700 damages as the result of a collision of two trucks last summer.

In a pickup were Robert, 16, John, 14, and Charles Eugene, 9, sons of Lawrence Mahoney, which figured in a collision with a truck belonging to the Bond Lumber Co. and driven by C. A. Dickey at a gravel road intersection two and a half miles east of Eldorado last July 30.

The complaint, filed in circuit court here by Atty. Ralph W. Choiser and Atty. Joe M. Butler, names Mahoney and his three sons the plaintiffs and Dickey and O. P. Bond the defendants.

The complaint says the Mahoney boys were travelling eastward, with Robert driving, and that Dickey was driving northward.

Robert asks $20,000, John $5,000 and Charles Eugene $5,000 for injuries and their father seeks $2,000 for loss of services of his sons and medical expenditures and $1,700 for truck damage.

Hull Favors S. Korean Troops In Indochina

Far East Commander Confers with President Eisenhower

WASHINGTON — Commander of U. S. Far Eastern forces Gen. John E. Hull said following a visit with President Eisenhower today that there would be "certain advantages" in sending South Korean troops to Indochina.

Hull arrived here today to confer with the President and other top government leaders on Far Eastern policy. He declined to say precisely what he had discussed with the chief executive.

Syngman Rhee, president of South Korea, has offered to send a ROK division to Indochina to help the hard-pressed French-Vietnamese forces in their fight against the Communist Viet Minh.

In response to questions by reporters, Hull said he saw "certain advantages" in sending Republic of Korea troops into Indochina because "it would be one Asiatic country coming to the assistance of another."

Concerned With Red Buildup

He declined to discuss the matter further. However, State Department officials are not disposed to take up Rhee's offer. They feel all South Korean troops are needed in the Korean republic itself to guard against any renewed Chinese Communist and North Korean aggression.

Hull expressed "concern" over the Communists' air strength buildup in North Korea, saying it was a violation of the truce and that he had asked for neutral inspection teams to go into North Korea and examine the situation.

Hull continued to state his belief Rhee will not resume fighting in Korea.

When Hull and John Allison, ambassador to Japan, returned here today Hull was asked what he would do if Rhee did launch a new attack.

"We'll cross that bridge when, and if, we come to it," he replied.

He said the North Koreans have built up their air force in Korea during the truce and are capable of attacking any time. He said he did not think they would attack unless they thought they could win. Right now, he said, they do not.

"Our troops are in good shape," Hull said, "with high morale and a low sickness rate. They are alert, eager, and ready for anything."

Admits Killing High School Girl

CHICAGO — A young ex-Marine said today he seduced a fun-loving high school girl and then strangled her because she "submitted too easily."

The killer, 20-year-old Lee H. Parker, told police "I always had an urge to kill. I couldn't control it."

He confessed choking Corrine Baldwin, 16-year-old high school sophomore, with his hands and then tightening a scarf around her neck although he knew "she was already dead."

The brunette girl's body was found in an alleyway on the South Side Wednesday. Parker admitted slaying her during an amorous auto rendezvous Tuesday night.

He was arrested in a crowd of curious onlookers at the death scene Wednesday when police noticed a suspicious scratch on his face.

Police said that Parker might be lying and possibly choked her into insensibility before he had sexual relations. However, he said: "I was disgusted with Corrine because she submitted to me. I told her all women were the same. Then she called me some names and we quarreled."

"I had been going with another girl and we were going to get married," he said. "I got to thinking about her and I felt bad."

Both Corrine and her killer were described as undisputed by their parents.

Red Cross Makes Plans for Bloodmobile Visit, Fund Drive

With the Red Cross annual membership drive due to take place in March and the return of the Red Cross bloodmobile to Saline county March 16 and 17, the February meeting by the Saline County Red Cross board, held yesterday at Schnierle's cafe, was a very busy one.

William J. Hopkins, chapter chairman, introduced two new members of the board at this meeting: Loren Dallas and Guy Hunter, Carrier Mills. Mr. Dallas is the new blood chairman at Carrier Mills and Mr. Hunter is county Junior Red Cross chairman.

Mr. Dallas informed the board that a meeting was held Feb. 4, at which plans were made to survey possible donors before the visit there on March 16, of the bloodmobile. Mrs. Alene Keel, residential recruitment chairman, and the following district chairmen were present: Mrs. Pauline Thornton, Mrs. Zadia Holmes, Mrs. Mary Lee Kingery, Mrs. Mary H. Street, Mrs. Louise Hine, Mrs. Stella Vance, Mrs. Margaret Davis, Mrs. Jean McSparrin, Mrs. Wilma D. Elms and Mrs. Kathleen McNew. Mrs. Keel will need additional residential chairmen and they will be named as soon as she has completed her organization, Mr. Dallas said.

Need Assistance of Nurses

Auda Stone, blood chairman, and Vernon Sullivan, recruitment chairman at Eldorado, said that they plan a donor survey in Eldorado before the visit there on June 8 of the bloodmobile. Also present from Eldorado were Bruce Burnett and Allen Murphy, of the drive fund committee.

Mrs. B. E. Montgomery is the new blood donor residential recruitment chairman in Harrisburg, where E. H. "Buck" Schnierle is the blood chairman. Mrs. W. O. Tuttle is chairman of Volunteer services for the county and is needing registered nurses to serve during the visit of the bloodmobile. A special appeal is made by her for the assistance of nurses not regularly employed to help in the county during visits by the bloodmobile.

To clear up conflicting statements regarding the charge for administering blood transfusions at both the Lightner and Harrisburg hospitals, Dr. W. D. Tuttle informed the board that the cost of administering the transfusion is $15 for the first and $10 for each transfusion thereafter. This fee covers the laboratory work of cross matching and typing of the blood, it is emphasized.

Local Residential Chairmen

Mrs. Montgomery lists her residential recruitment chairmen in the various districts as follows: Mrs. Wayne Gidcomb, Mrs. Clyde Pittman, Mrs. Bob Burnett, Mrs. I. M. Taylor, Mrs. Ed Brantley, Mrs. W. B. Armstrong, Mrs. Russell Ashford, Miss Cuba Turner, Mrs. George Rees, Mrs. Glynn McCormack, Mrs. Harry Border, Mrs. Donald O'Neil, Mrs. George Butler, Mrs. George Christman, Mrs. Vivian Bacon and Miss Alta Johnson.

The chapter president announced that the Harrisburg Kiwanis club will sponsor the fund drive in March and Gene Irvin, member of the club, and owner of Irvin Appliance Co., Harrisburg, will be the general chairman of the fund drive.

On the planning committee with him from the chapter executive board are William J. Hopkins, Herman Lambert, vice chairman, Bruce Burnett, Eldorado, and Loren Dallas, Carrier Mills.

Mrs. K. C. Capel, recording secretary, listed other board members present as follows: Vernon Sullivan, Eldorado, blood committee; Mrs. J. L. Miller, blood program chairman; Allan Murphy, executive committee; Mrs. Carroll Porter, public information, and Mrs. Helen Belt, executive secretary.

James W. Ludlow Dies at Eldorado

James W. Ludlow of Eldorado died Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at the Eldorado Nursing Home, where he had been living for the past nine months. Mr. Ludlow suffered a stroke about a year ago and last month sustained injuries in a fall, complications from which caused his death. He was 73.

A retired truck driver, Mr. Ludlow came to Eldorado from Posey County, Ind., 44 years ago.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ralph (Helen) Rice, of Lansing, Ill.; two brothers, Luther Ludlow of Mt. Vernon, Ind. and Charles Ludlow of Eldorado; four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. A nephew, Dan Ludlow of Harrisburg, also survives.

His body lies in state at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado, with the funeral service to be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Eldorado Free Methodist church where he had been a member 22 years. Burial will be in Wolf Creek cemetery.

Council Makes New Attempt To Secure Lake

New Bond Ordinance Is Introduced At Special Meeting

Harrisburg's city council, rebuffed in an effort to secure an ample water supply for the community, has begun another attempt for a Lake Harrisburg.

At a special meeting of the council attended by all the members and Atty. D. F. Rumsey, acting city attorney, yesterday afternoon the council unanimously voted to repeal the bond ordinance passed Dec. 23 calling for $200,000 in bonds for the lake and for improvements in the system.

Then was introduced a new bond ordinance, similar to the one that was repealed, which is scheduled for passage next week, probably on Wednesday. The new ordinance must be over seven days before it can be voted on.

The reason for repealing the old ordinance and passing the new one is this:

There was a petition bearing names of some more than 10 percent of the voters at the last municipal election submitted to the council asking for a vote on the ordinance passed Dec. 23. The council was planning to call for a special referendum on the proposition around Feb. 16 although the time for the options on lake ground to start expiring was nearing.

Then the blow came. Chapman and Cutler, law firm advising the bond house, Barcus-Kindred, ruled that Harrisburg could not call a special election on the bond issue as a section of the statute declares that when more than 10 percent and less than 25 percent of the voters petition for a referendum, it cannot take place until the next city election, which will be next year.

Although there was considerable local legal opinion that statutes that would permit a special election applied to the local situation the advice of Chapman and Cutler had to be accepted because the bond house would follow the ruling. So it was decided to start over again on a bond ordinance with the idea in mind of handling the matter this time so that a special election can be held.

Angry Taxpayer Pours Blood Over Tub Of Silver Dollars in Revenue Office

DES MOINES, Iowa — Robert Friel said today if the government keeps dunning him for $8,473 in back taxes he'll dump the entire amount—plus a buck of blood—in T. Coleman Andrews' lap.

Wednesday the theatrical Friel carted a washbowl into the office of the Internal Revenue Bureau, lugged 11 sacks containing 5,000 silver dollars to the tub, filled the tub with the coins and then poured two cans of animal blood on the money.

"Here's your blood money," he shouted at bureau officials.

The money was part of $13,470 which the government claims Friel owes for back taxes. He said if the government rules he must pay the rest of the money he will take it to the Washington office of Andrews, commissioner of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

"And I'll dump the whole mess right in his lap," Friel said.

Friel, 27, is a candidate for the

French Embassy Reports Offers of Americans to Volunteer in Indochina

WASHINGTON — The French Embassy disclosed today that individual Americans have been volunteering for the fight against the Communists in Indochina.

"We have received lots of letters and some telephone calls from Americans who want to volunteer," said a spokesman. "But we have turned them down because we don't recruit in this country."

The French didn't reveal exactly how many offers there have been. But it was learned they came from pilots, mechanics, doctors and in some cases from youths who were unemployed.

The State Department warned that it is "illegal for any American to go abroad to serve in any foreign military force."

"If he does, he loses his citizenship," a spokesman said. "It's the law."

Congress Fears Involvement

The department said it has received no official requests for permission to serve in the Indochina war. Under the McCarran Act, this could be granted only with the express approval of the secretaries of state and defense.

French authorities were asked if any Americans have managed to find their way into the fight in spite of legal obstacles and official discouragement. They said they don't think so but that some might be serving with units of the French Foreign Legion.

The revelation that Americans have been volunteering came amid some congressional fears that the United States might become deeply involved in the seven-year war, in spite of administration assurances to the contrary.

Byrd Hits Necessary Risk

Sen. Harry L. Byrd (D. Va.), a member of the armed services committee, took issue with President Eisenhower's news conference statement Wednesday that sending 200 Air Force technicians to Indochina was a necessary risk and part of the effort to prevent outright U. S. involvement in the war.

Byrd said it was a "needless risk" and a "mistake" that could lead to a serious incident.

Byrd said as long as there are untrained Americans serving in a chance they will be killed and that there might be a serious incident. He said it would have been more advisable for the administration to have recruited civilian mechanics for the job.

The Virginian said the administration decision to pull the mechanics back by June 12 was made only after the idea met "vigorous objections" from armed services committees.

Other congressional news: Farm: O. V. Wells, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Marketing Service, told the Congressional Economic committee he expects farm prices and income to be about the same this year as last. That is, he added, "providing abnormal developments in weather or in the economy as a whole do not occur."

Housing: Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R. Mich.) of the House Banking committee conferred with President Eisenhower on housing. He said they were in "general agreement." He declined to say, however, whether he supports Mr. Eisenhower's proposal to start 35,000 public housing units in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Communists: Rep. Martin Dies (D-Tex.) asked President Eisenhower and Republican and Democratic leaders to support a bill he has introduced to outlaw Communism.

WASHINGTON — Scott McLeod's political speaking tour has kicked up such a fuss that the State Department is speeding special reports to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Berlin, it was learned today.

McLeod, the department's personnel-security chief, took a leave of absence this week to hit the stump for the Republicans in Wyoming and South Dakota.

Democrats rapped the administration for letting a man in such a sensitive position enter the political arena. And some State Department officials privately indicated some misgivings.

A department spokesman said he wasn't sure whether Dulles knew McLeod intended to make the speeches. But he said he "is being informed of the press and congressional reaction."

There were indications that press clippings and copies of congressional comments were being sent to Dulles at the Big Four foreign ministers conferences by air pouch. It was believed that cable reports also were being dispatched.

Ward, Wyo., Wednesday night, McLeod hit him at his critics, saying "I don't know how you're going to work in government and not be in politics."

"Making a dirty word of it just doesn't make sense to me," he said.

Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) had said two days ago that the ex-FBI agent was being employed in the "burly-burly of the political arena" as a "party huckster canvassing votes."

He urged Dulles to put a stop to politicking of a man in such a key post.

Democratic congressional nomination. He is in the construction and investment business.

The angry young man said he was "fed to the teeth with the pushing around the government is giving me" and the demonstration in the bureau offices was his way of "raising hell."

Along with his bulky load Friel carried signs reading blood money and "all the perfume of the Internal Revenue Bureau will not sweeten this bloody dough."

When he finished covering the 5,000 silver dollars with the blood, Friel told Frank Halpin, district internal revenue director to "count it."

"Count it yourself," Halpin said. The director said he had been tipped that Friel would attempt to pay off part of his claim in the unorthodox manner.

With a crowd of curious onlookers watching his every move the stormy Friel rolled up his sleeves, lit a cigar and went to work.

Presides Over Court Without Senate Okay

Nixon Seeks to Get Subcommittee Chairman to Act

By United Press

The administration is trying to speed Senate action on the mysterious stymied nomination of Earl Warren as chief justice, it was learned today.

President Eisenhower gave the former California governor a recess appointment while Congress was out of town and then formally submitted the nomination to the Senate when Congress returned last month.

But though Mr. Warren has been presiding over the Supreme Court since October, a Senate Judiciary subcommittee studying his nomination has not yet acted.

It was learned that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has been working behind the scenes to get the subcommittee to move. He talked with Senate Judiciary Chairman William Langer (R-N.D.) for an hour Wednesday.

No Request for FBI Report

Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers also has talked with Langer.

It was not clear just what is holding up subcommittee action. One issue is whether to ask for an FBI report on Mr. Warren.

Langer said the subcommittee "seemed to want" one but that no request has been sent to the FBI.

As of now the subcommittee isn't even meeting. Langer said the staff is going over a batch of letters and documents received from various sources on the nomination. He added that he doesn't know when the subcommittee will meet again.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) expects overwhelming confirmation whenever the nomination reaches the Senate floor.

Other congressional news: Farm: O. V. Wells, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Marketing Service, told the Congressional Economic committee he expects farm prices and income to be about the same this year as last. That is, he added, "providing abnormal developments in weather or in the economy as a whole do not occur."

Ferrell Hospital Is Burglarized

Ferrell hospital at Eldorado was burglarized during the night, a thief or thieves taking $227 in cash and $684 in checks from the business office, Sheriff Paul Spangler said today.

A patient in a nearby room told Dr. N. A. Thompson, partner in the hospital, that she heard a noise early today but presumed that a new patient was being brought in.

Spangler said the burglary was discovered when Deloras Redfearn, employed at the hospital, opened up the office at 7:40 a. m. A window was open and a venetian blind was pulled halfway up and tied to a wire. A basement door also was open, Spangler said.

The money and checks were taken from a metal box in a drawer of the desk of Aiden Metten, business manager. The office is on the first floor.

It was learned that the office door definitely was locked at 6 p. m. yesterday and that it was locked when Mrs. Redfearn arrived at work.

There was one nurse on duty on the first floor and nurses on the second floor. They reported they did not hear or see anything unusual.

Testing the Power of Suggestion

To Find; Dem's Ex-Treasurer

WASHINGTON. — Though the Republican National Committee plans a campaign chest of $3,800-000 for next November's elections and won't have too much trouble raising it, the boys are having trouble raising the candidates.

In Montana, the GOP has allocated $300,000 as a campaign kitty to defeat elder statesman Sen. Jim Murray, Democrat, but so far they've found no takers. One year ago Republicans were lathering to tackle Jim Murray, but more recently there's been no enthusiasm.
In Wyoming, the Republicans still can't find a top-notch candidate willing to run against Sen.
Lester Hunt, Democrat. Congressman Will H. Harrison so far has said no.

In West Virginia, no Republican of prominence and potentiality is available to run against veteran Sen. Matt Neely, Democrat, who has been in politics since 1917.

In Minnesota, where the GOP National Committee has long been straining at the leash to defeat Hubert Humphrey, the candidates so far appear a minus quantity.
First Congressman Walter Judd considered running, but figured he couldn't make it. Then Dr. Charles Mayo of the famed Mayo clinic was begged by friends of President Eisenhower to get into the race, but said no. There was also talk of Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, and now some Republicans want to draft ex-Gov. Harold Stassen.
But so far no one is definitely running against the redoubtable Democrat, Mr. Humphrey.

In Illinois, where two years ago
Sen. Paul Douglas was considered a marked man, the situation is different. Douglas is no longer a marked man but so many candidates are in the race against him that they are stepping on each other's toes—a total of eleven.
Only two of these, however, are nationally known.

One is Ed Hayes, former commander of the American Legion, and national chairman of Americans for America. The other is Gen. Julius Klein, the public relations expert.

Running against this broken field, Douglas is considered an excellent bet to win.

Note — On the other hand,
Democrats in California are having a hard time lining up candidates against the Republicans.
Gov. "Goody" Knight, the conservative successor to Chief Justice Warren, looks like a such a shoo-in that Ray Lehaney of the Teamsters Union is even trying to stampede labor onto his bandwagon.

PROTECTING REPUBLICANS
Chip Robert, ex-treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, is a lifelong Democrat but was dining with a group of Republicans when some of the Eisenhower men paid tribute to the cooperation they were getting from Democrats.

Harold Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, especially praised a Georgia Democrat, Congressman Carl Vinson, former chairman of the Armed Services committee and still one of the most potent men on Capitol Hill.

"I don't know what I'd do without Vinson," the Eisenhower cabinet member said. "Though he's a Democrat, I get more help and support from him than many Republicans. I have been surprised at the nonpartisan cooperation we have received from Democrats generally."

"That reminds me," remarked
Robert, who also comes from Georgia, "of an old colored fellow down our way who was given ether back in the days when they didn't use ether much in country hospitals. Before they gave him the anesthetic, the nurse said: 'Now for about an hour or two you aren't going to be dead or alive. You're just going to be betwixt and between heaven and earth.'"

"So when Uncle Eb came out of the ether," continued Robert,

"some of his kinfolks asked him how it felt. 'Where did you go while you were half dead?' they asked. 'did you go down to hell?'"

"Yes sir, I sure did go down to hell," Uncle Eb waxed eloquent.
"I looked all around down there and then I come back."

"How was it down there?"
"Oh, every place I see a white man down there, I also see a Nigra standin' between him and the fire.
It was just like it is up here."

"That," Democrat Robert told his Eisenhower cabinet friends, "is the way it is with you fellows.
You've each got a Democrat standing betwixt you and the fire."

Shipping Slump — Highlights from Louis Wolfson's testimony (he's head of New York shipping) before the National Security Commission of the American Legion:
"Since the end of the war we have given $60,000,000 in assistance toward the construction of foreign merchant ships, but only an annual subsidy of $6,000,000 to the American merchant fleet." "Only 27.9 to per cent of America's foreign trade is transported in American bottoms. And this only eight years after the end of the war when we were rated as the leading maritime nation of the world."

"The Randall Commission would mean complete destruction of the American merchant marine." . . . (Ike's Randall commission, headed by Clarence Randall of Inland Steel, recommends lower tariffs, more international trade and greater use of foreign bottoms.) . . . "Under this plan," said Wolfson, "Santa Claus would even be able to use his own reindeer."

Captain Carlsen Again — Kurt Carlsen, the heroic sea captain who refused to desert his sinking ship, the Flying Enterprise, during an Atlantic gale, sailed into Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, with his new ship, Flying Enterprise II, where he heard an American engineer had been seriously injured and needed blood transfusions. Carlsen called his crew together, announced he was offering his blood, and the entire crew followed suit.
Only three of the crew had the right type of blood, but they took turns supplying the injured man transfusions for several days.

Mrs. L. N. Davenport is Nominated By Woman's Club for Mother of Year

Mrs. L. N. Davenport

Mrs. Geneva Horning Davenport, wife of L. N. Davenport, 118 West Homer street, Harrisburg, has been nominated by the Harrisburg Woman's club for Illinois Mother of the Year. Her name has been sent by the club to Mrs. O. B. Pace, Farmer City, Ill., chairman of the Golden Rule Foundation by which the Mother of the Year will be selected. Announcement is usually made in March of the winner of that high honor.

Mrs. Davenport received news of her nomination from Mrs. J. J. Klein, president of the club, Wednesday evening just before she went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brashears, where a party of 15 had gathered to celebrate the 50th birthday of Mrs. Davenport. It was typical of her modesty that she could not bring herself to announce the honor among these close friends.

The letter which was written about her nomination was written by Miss Bernice Patterson, high school English teacher, excerpts from which follow and explain why she was chosen by the nominating committee:

She was born in Harrisburg, is 50 years of age and is the mother of three grown sons.

Her husband is L. N. Davenport, a furniture dealer in Harrisburg. He is chairman of the Official Board of the First Methodist church, and he assists Mrs. Davenport in directing the Youth work of the church. As a member of the City School board, and of the Kiwanis club, he contributes significant service to the community.

Mrs. Davenport is a Harrisburg Township high school graduate; she has had private voice lessons and has always been more than generous in singing wherever her talent is needed.

Her sons are:

Robert S. Davenport, 28, associate in his father's business. He is a high school graduate and has had two years of college work. He served in the armed services in World War 2 as a Navy cadet.

Thomas E. Davenport, 25, associate in his father's business; a high school graduate and he has an A. B. degree from DePaul University, Chicago, Ill. He has recently returned from a military tour of duty in Germany as a first lieutenant.

Clifford E. Davenport, 23, is in military service at Camp Gordon, Ga. He is a high school graduate and has an A. B. from Indiana University and an M. A. from Iowa University.

Each one of her sons have served as Youth secretary in the Methodist conference, and Tom has served as district president of the Illinois Youth conference.

Mrs. Davenport is an active Announce Marriage of Miss Norma Lee Hamby to Walter Bill of Hammond. Mrs. Jewell Harrison of Herod announces the marriage of her daughter, Norma Lee Hamby, to Walter Bill of Hammond, Ind., son of Mrs. Elizabeth Bill, Jacksonville, Ill.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert H. Vornholt at 1 o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, Jan. 24, in the residence lounge of the YMCA at Harvey, Ill. The bride was attended by Mrs. Earlene Royal, Harvey, and the bridegroom chose Robert H. Weekes, close friend, as his best man. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Harvey Room of the YMCA. Mrs. Bill was formerly employed by the General Telephone company of Harrisburg, but has been for the past six months employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company of Harvey. The bridegroom is employed by the Standard Oil company, Whiting, Ind., and they plan to make their future home in Hammond, Ind.

McKinley Baptist WMS
Has Royal Service Program
The Women's Missionary Society of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met at the church Wednesday afternoon for the regular business session and Royal Service program.

Mrs. Webb Yarbrough, president, conducted the business meeting, during which Mrs. R. C. Fritts was elected first vice president to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. George B. Leathers. Mrs. Houston Smith announced that the week of prayer for home missions will be observed on March 5, and asked that each member prepare and pray for that day.

Plans to buy a film projector for the church this year were discussed, and Mrs. Henry Short closed the business meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Ben Gardner of Circle A was in charge of the missionary program, and she was assisted by other members of her circle in presenting the various topics. Theme of the program was "Strangers Everywhere" and dealt with the ministry to the migrant. Mrs. Hugh Rann gave the devotion, for which she read Luke 10: 30-37 and Matthew 25:40.

Mrs. Guy Worthington told of the migrants' housing condition, wages and insecurity, with Mrs. Yarbrough discussing the plight of the little children. Mrs. Gardner closed by telling of the trailer chapels. Southern Baptists have taken the gospel to these groups of people. Stressing the fact that the task is a great one, she stated that only the surface has been scratched in this ministry.

Mrs. Roy Caldwell led in the closing prayer.

Frank Allen and Bernard Healy of the Farmers' Supply Co., are attending a Diesel service school being conducted by the Oliver Corporation in St. Louis today and Friday.

member of the First Methodist church, a member who helps in every service, unless illness or death in her family keeps her at home.

For 30 years she has sung in the church choir.

Mrs. Davenport has been the Youth secretary of the Harrisburg District of the Southern Illinois Methodist conference, and is now Secretary of Youth Work in the Jurisdictional conference of her church.

She has served as district director of the church board of education and is currently the conference director. She is also a member of the official board of her church.

In the following activities Mrs. Davenport participates actively: The W. C. T. U. of the Harrisburg Woman's club, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Christmas Seal drive, Community Concert plans.

During the early years she took much responsibility for PTA and Boy Scout programs of service.

Radio station WEBQ has invited Mrs. Davenport to take part on a program from that station when it is hoped that Mrs. L. M. Smith, Ozark, who was named Illinois Mother in 1952, may also be present, and possibly Mrs. L. E. Mosley, Metropolis, also nominated by the Metropolis Women's club.

Sleep Position Varies
The average person changes position from 20 to 45 times a night. The person who does not change position often, does not, contrary to popular opinion, have a restless night and will probably awaken with a logy feeling. A level, resilient bed is necessary to facilitate frequent position changes.

Honey For Sweetness
French dressings used with fruit are usually made with honey for extra sweetness. Use ¼ cup honey for 1 cup dressing, and substitute lemon juice for vinegar in the dressing.

Evergreen Garden Club Holds Valentine Tea

The Evergreen Garden club held its annual Valentine tea Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hudson Muge. Mrs. Jack Davenport of the Posa shop was a guest speaker and gave an interesting talk on "Corsages." She told of the different flowers used and the many different ways they can be worn. She explained how the corsages could be made a part of the costume and reflect the personality of the one who wears it. A beautiful corsage she had made was won by Mrs. Kenneth Capel. In the business meeting the club decided to aid the blood bank in all ways possible to help reach the quota.

Mrs. Harry Gearhart, a former member from Mt. Vernon, was present.

The tea table was lovely with pink cloth with deep white fringe, candles and a flower arrangement of pink roses and heather in a rose bowl. Individual cakes were served in the shape of hearts iced in pink and white. Mrs. Geo. Hensley won the door prize by having the lucky Feb. 14 heart.

Mrs. Chas. Farrar, Mrs. Louie Gaskins, Mrs. Robt. Capel and Mrs. Edgar Kaemper were the committee assisting Mrs. Muge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd L. Parker have returned from a two-weeks' vacation in Miami, where they attended the General Motors Motorama, previewing the new General Motors products including the 1954 Frigidaire.

Automobile Factories Over Production and Dealers Distress Selling of New 1953 Model Cars has forced the price of good Used Cars Down to where they represent Values at the Highest Level Since World War II.

Come in and see these Values and you will understand why a lot of people who formerly Bought Cheap New Cars are now buying the Very Finest Used Cars in the Medium Priced Car Field for far less than they would have to pay for a Cheap New Car. ## Herrin Man Awarded $3,500 for Stab Wounds in Tavern

MARION, Ill. — Earl Denham, a Herrin coal miner, has been awarded $3,500 in damages by a Williamson County Circuit Court jury for stab wounds received in a Herrin tavern in December, 1952.

Denham sued Glenn and Pauline Marx, owners of the tavern, for $20,000 under provisions of the State Dram Act. An earlier trial last May resulted in a hung jury. The decision in the second trial was returned Wednesday.

Denham charged that he was stabbed in the chest by Don Craig, Herrin, while seated at the bar.

49 Children Naturalized in Federal Court

More Than Half of Group Adopted from Foreign Countries

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — A scrubbed, starched 4-year-old with long blonde curls raised her right hand and announced to no one in particular, "today I get to be a citizen."

Across the courtroom aisle, Rita Murray, 6, and Bryan, 7, giggled with excitement.

"We're not going to be foreigners any more," Bryan said.

The children were three of the 49 new citizens from 3 to 17 years old who appeared today in the Brooklyn Federal Court for the first all-children's naturalization hearing. Two of the previously-scheduled children failed to appear.

A few of the youngest citizens played a quiet patty-cake with each other while Judge Matthew T. Abruzzo read the citizenship oath, but almost all of them were surprisingly aware of why their parents had brought them to the courtroom.

Regular Ceremony

Photographers lined up the smallest citizens by the American flag and they saluted it while flash-bulbs popped.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

Nerving backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting on one's feet or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the overloaded kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

4-year-old so eager to be a citizen, announced, "I have on my very best dress." She is the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Portello, who brought her here from Canada.

"Have any of you been arrested?" Judge Abruzzo asked as part of the regular ceremony.

Everybody laughed. One small boy wandered down the aisle for a close look at the judge.

At the close of the half hour ceremony, with most of the new citizens stirring restlessly in their seats, Abruzzo said, "I want to congratulate you on becoming citizens and compliment you on your good behavior."

More than half of the 49 were adopted from foreign countries by American couples. The others were born abroad, but have one parent who is an American citizen or had passed their 16th birthdays when their parents got their citizenship papers.

New Immigration Laws

Before 1940 a minor child could not apply for citizenship in his own name, and only became a citizen as a minor through the naturalization of his parents. Children adopted from foreign countries by American couples could not apply for citizenship until they were 18.

Now new immigration laws not only make minor children citizens, but they allow American couples to bring in more foreign orphans than ever before, first through displaced persons provisions and now through the Refugee Relief Act.

"We felt it would be nice to arrange a hearing just for children, since there were so many petitioning at the same time for citizenship," explained Matthew T. Abruzzo, presiding judge of the court where today's hearing was held.

Local Mothers March Adds $497 to March of Dimes Fund

A total of $497.15 was added to the March of Dimes fund during the "Mothers March on Polio," a house-to-house campaign for funds, it has been announced by Mrs. Jane Brantley, chairman of the drive.

The city was divided into eight districts, along school district lines, and collections by district were as follows: Horace Mann $159.13, McKinley $102.15, Logan $104.18, Bayliss $24.10, Lincoln $20.95, Dorrisville $14.75, Dorris Heights $54.84 and Wilmoth addition $17.05.

Mrs. Brantley also announced that $265.12 was collected during the campaign in the Harrisburg business district.

Army to Draft 18,000 in April

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department Wednesday issued an 18,000-man draft call for April, all for the Army.

This will bring to 1,661,430 the number of men drafted since September, 1950, shortly after the outbreak of the Korean War. All were for the Army except 81,430 who went into the Marine Corps early in the war.

The April draft call is the same as in February and March. Earlier, the Army was drafting 23,000 a month.

Defense officials expect monthly quotas to remain at 18,000 until 24,000 and 28,000 from mid-1954 through 1960.

Paris Reverses Silhouette Of Last Fall

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS — (NEA) — A picture something like the Roaring Twenties is what's left on the Paris style screen, now that the spring unveilings are complete. The top designers simply reversed last August's silhouettes instead of developing them further.

Narrow sleeves and shoulders replace the top width of last season; narrow coats replace stand-away coats and the princess dress is eclipsed by the bloused shirt-waist silhouette.

Designers currently rating the most praise from buyers for their collections are Fath, Balmain and Dior. Reactions to the much-discussed Chanel opening were mixed but there was a general feeling of disappointment.

A rundown on the top designers and their collections produces this fashion picture:

Jacques Fath: He shows snugly-fitted suits (some with boning) and bloused dresses for a neat, narrow silhouette. His length is 15 inches from the floor. Shoulder line is natural. Coats are loose, often widening at the hemline. Fath uses darts and seaming in addition to boning to gain the neat look that characterizes his collection this year.

Christian Dior: This designer has abandoned the princess silhouette for bloused lines and what he terms his "illy of the valley silhouette." Top width is gone and in place of his famous tulip silhouette are set-in sleeves. Bloused bodices are belted at the natural waistline.

Daytime skirts are slim and lengths remain short; they are wider for the afternoon but even so, tend to be narrower than in his famed "domed silhouette." He uses a true dark blue named "bleu de Paris," either by itself or combined with lighter blues in afternoon prints and appearing again for evening in solid color.

Pierre Balmain: Elegance typifies this designer's collection, elegance and flattery. Lines are slim but easy with much fine, gathered draping. Sleeves are set-in and simple and shoulder-line is natural in keeping with the general Parisian trend to abandon top width completely.

Blue is strong here, as it is in most collections. But Balmain also combines pinks and reds successfully. And he uses many tints in pretty pastel colors for dresses and suits, sometimes with coats.

Jean Dessès: He features clothes for the smaller woman. There are a number of suits with short, fitted jackets and skirts with easy lines. Lines are generally soft and skirts feature much intricate pleating. Blue is big here, too, and is a light sapphire called "cashmere blue."

Gres: Predominant in this collection are loose, flowing lines but there are some fitted dresses with fullness placed low. Dresses are frequently shown with unfitted coats that are straight to the hip-line with fullness below to accompany dress designs.

Stevenson Spoo's Republicans for Campaign Fund

CHICAGO (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, titular leader of the Democratic Party, kept his hand in Wednesday night with some gentle spoofing of the GOP.

In a talk before more than 1,200 members of the Independent Voters of Illinois, the defeated presidential candidate commented that Republicans are probably ready to start raising money for a "new crusade" in next fall's elections.

"I don't know what that means, unless it means that their last one didn't reach the 'Holy Land,'" Stevenson said.

Stevenson referred to the "great Crusade" label given by President Eisenhower to his campaign for office and plans for running the government.

A fellow speaker, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) attacked the GOP in harsher terms, charging it was becoming "more and more, a class party."

"Unfortunately, in its direction the Republican Party is coming perilously close to being a class party, namely one whose policies are primarily determined by great wealth," Douglas said.

Stelle's Son is Named to Indiana Toll Road Commission

INDIANAPOLIS — John A. Stelle, son of a former Illinois governor, has been appointed to the Indiana Toll Road Commission by Governor Craig.

Craig's executive secretary, Horace N. Coats, announced appointment today by Stelle, who is president of the Arketex Ceramics Corp., Brazil, as a Democratic member of the commission.

Stelle's father, John Stelle, once was Illinois' chief executive.

It was the second time Craig had appointed Stelle to a government position in recent months. He was a member of the parole board of the Indiana Boys School, a position he resigned to accept the commission appointment.

7 Promotions in Local Reserve Unit

Seven members of the 825th Replacement company, Army reserve unit with headquarters in Harrisburg, recently have been promoted, Captain James L. Lamkin, company commander, has announced.

All promotions were from Pvt. E-1 to Pvt. E-2 and were to the following: Kenneth L. Payne and James F. Rentfro, Marion; Dean V. Snoddy, Stonefort; Charles D. Graves and Jerry L. Pinnell, Carrier Mills; William E. Miles and Vernon L. Edwards, Harrisburg.

Electoral Board Rules O'Brien Senate Petitions Invalid

SPRINGFIELD — The State Electoral Board, headed by Gov. William G. Stratton, has ruled the petitions of Edward Dunbar O'Brien, Chicago, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, are invalid.

The board of five elected state officers met Wednesday and found O'Brien's petitions were not properly bound. Ouster of O'Brien reduced the field of GOP senatorial aspirants in the April primary to 10, still a record for an Illinois primary.

The board announced O'Brien filed three sets of petitions but they were not bound as required when presented at the secretary of state's office.

Industrial Commission Case is Settled

The case of James H. Yates of Equality against Regenhart and Southern Const. Co. in the Industrial Commission has been settled for $1185.79.

Mr. Yates was injured March 12, 1953, at the strip coal mine of the company by falling rock from bucket of dragline injuring his face.

K. C. Ronalds was attorney for Mr. Yates and John P. Roddy of Chicago was attorney for the company.

Army Reservist Returns $900,000 Check to Gov't

MOBILE, Ala. — Willie K. Smith handed $900,021.66 to the government today and went back to driving his beer truck.

Smith took one last look at the handsome check made out to him and then mailed it back to 3rd Army headquarters in Atlanta, where a mechanical error had nearly made him a millionaire.

With the check went Smith's dreams of a new home and a Cadillac. Actually, the government only owes him $21.66 in pay as an Army reservist. A fluke in a check-writing machine resulted in the $900,000 overpayment.

Secret of Woman Masquerading as Man For 22 Years Disclosed in Courtroom

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A woman who masqueraded as a husband and step-father awaited transfer to a woman's prison today where she will wear a dress for the first time in 22 years.

The secret of Violet Marie Bradshaw, 35, was discovered Wednesday in a dramatic courtroom scene.

Judge Dana F. Reynolds had just sentenced Vernon M. Bradshaw to one to 10 years in the Mansfield Reformatory on an embezzlement charge.

A brother of the accused dashed up to the judge and shouted, "You've made a terrible mistake, Vernon is really Violet and she is a woman."

Married On "Business Basis"

The startled judge ordered a physical examination. A physician and a jail matron reported that Miss Bradshaw was indeed a normal woman.

"This is the most amazing case I've ever heard of in my years on the bench," Judge Reynolds said. He ordered her to be taken to the Marysville Reformatory for Women.

Violet said she had married Vera Perdue, 29, last August 27 in Richmond, Ind., on a "business basis." Mrs. Perdue has two children by a previous marriage, a boy, 12, and a girl, 8.

Mrs. Perdue fled from the courtroom and refused to talk to reporters. "I'm innocent," she said. "Why don't you leave me alone and don't meddle in other people's affairs."

Mistrusted By "Wife"

Violet said she started wearing boys' clothes when she was about four years ago when she rented a room from her. She said the "marriage" took place in order to prevent authorities from taking away Mrs. Perdue's two children on non-support charges.

Violet said that recently Mrs. Perdue had begun "to mistrust me and asked among other things, why I didn't shave."

Postpone Four-Team Freshman Tourney At McLeansboro

A four-team blind draw freshman basketball tournament, scheduled to be held at McLeansboro high school Monday, Feb. 15, and Wednesday, Feb. 17, has been postponed until a later date and possibly will not be held at all this season.

Four teams, two from Saline county, had entered. Carrier Mills and Eldorado high schools had accepted an invitation to send their freshman teams to compete against Benton and the host school, McLeansboro.

Announcement was first publicly made of the proposed meet Tuesday, then Wednesday it was said there was some doubt that the IHSA would approve the tournament, apparently because of the regular district and regional meets coming up in the near future.

Pinckneyville Meets Quincy Saturday Night In Top Game of the Week End

SPRINGFIELD — Pinckneyville and Quincy will stage a "battle of the giants" on the Quincy floor Saturday night to head an action-packed weekend of Illinois prep basketball.

Quincy will be out to erase the only blotch on its 1953-54 record. The Panthers, once beaten themselves, whipped Quincy soundly 65-57 in the Centralia holiday tourney. But this time Pinckneyville (22-1), will have to meet the Blue Devils, 17-1, on home ground. And Quincy is plenty tough at home.

Quincy held the state high school record for home floor wins with 44 when finally beaten there last season. This year Quincy is again unbeaten at home.

Oddly enough, Pinckneyville now holds the home court victory record with 46 in a row. The Panthers lost to Centralia at the Centralia tourney finals, but gained revenge by whipping the Orphans at the Salem tourney two weeks ago.

Litchfield Plays Edwardsville
The United Press Board of Coaches rates Pinckneyville second and Quincy fourth in the state. One advantage for Pinckneyville might be that Quincy must also play Friday night while the Panthers are idle. Quincy entertains Chicago Tilden Tech Friday.

Most of the state's top-ranking clubs also do battle twice this weekend. Another headline is the Saturday night Litchfield-Edwardsville tilt. Both clubs also play Friday, fifth-rated Edwardsville meeting Collinsville and seventh-ranked Litchfield tangling with Shelbyville.

Rockford East, currently rated sixth in the state with a 14-2 record, will have to be careful against upstart-minded La Salle-Peru in the Big 8 conference's top game. La Salle-Peru has up-ended Elgin, Ottawa and St. Bede in winning seven of its last eight.

Centralia Plays Harrisburg
La Grange, the kingpin of Prairie State preps, steps out against Des Plaines Maine High tonight and meets Hinsdale Saturday. Neither club is expected to challenge the Lions seriously, and victories would give La Grange 17 wins against one loss.

Moline, which has skidded badly since becoming in January the only club to beat La Grange over two seasons, has a chance to regain some stature in its Saturday night game with Decatur. The Maroons also oppose northwest doormat Galesburg Friday.

Mount Vernon, which moved up as the state's third best club in this week's ratings, meets West Frankfort in a Southwest conference clash Friday, then goes to Salem Saturday night. The Rams have a 16-2 record.

Other top 15 teams and their opposition include:

Centralia — Harrisburg Friday and Johnston City Saturday; Wood River — Granite City Friday and Collinsville Saturday; Peoria Woodruff — Peoria Spalding Friday and Abingdon Saturday; Cicero Morton — New Trier tonight and Proviso Friday; Paris — Georgetown Friday; Pinckneyville — Spring Valley Hall Friday.

Bull Dogs Surely Reminded of the Score: 117 to 39

One hundred seventeen to thirty-nine!

It was a dark and dreary night inside, that night of January 8. Outside it was mild and blowy but inside the Centralia gym it was dismal for the Bull Dogs.

They were getting beat 117 to 39. Coach Lawrence Calufetti was in his first game as Bull Dog head coach and the Orphans were pouring it on his inexperienced lads, some of whom had even very little freshman-sophomore experience, to the tune of 117 to 39.

Tomorrow night the Orphans invade Davenport gym for a South Seven basketball contest. It will be the second loop meeting of the year for the two teams. Centralia won the first game 117 to 39.

Coach Jimmy Evers' boys really poured it on the locals, who had to travel all the way to Centralia with a handful of followers on deck for that first game of a new regime. Bobby Joe Mason threw 27 points through the hoop but all the Orphans got into the scoring. They had to run up a score of 117 to 39.

It was a baptism of fire for the young locals. They'll never have to go through anything worse than a drubbing to the tune of 117 to 39.

The locals are improving — and it is doubtful that they can upset a team that five weeks ago beat them so unmercifully, 117 to 39.

But the chances are, when the kids take the floor tomorrow night, there'll be something burning in their minds. It's a game that ended 117 to 39.

Braves Trade Bickford To Baltimore; Coleman Signs Yankee Contract

By United Press

The Milwaukee Braves have sent veteran pitcher Vern Bickford to Baltimore and received a minor league catcher in exchange.

Earl White Jr. of Baltimore's San Antonio, Texas league, came into the Braves fold on the deal Wednesday.

The 34-year-old Bickford has expressed dissatisfaction with the Braves club, complaining that he was not being used enough. General Manager John Quinn said.

It was reported that Bickford was less popular with management after his fisticuff exchange with Johnny Logan in New York last July.

Quinn said he had been trying to make a deal on Bickford with an American league club for some time.

Everybody waived him in the National league," Quinn said.

Coleman Signs

Bickford had a 2.5 record in 58 innings and an earned run average of 5.28 last year.

Earlier Wednesday first baseman Joe Adcock signed up, leaving only two first-string Braves off the contract list.

Jack Dittmer and Johnny Logan have not returned their contracts.

The Yankees got a signed pact from Jerry Coleman, the ex-marine flyer who is an important man in the Bronx Bombers' plans. Coleman, returning for his first full season since his second Marine hitch, figures as possibly the

Harrisburg, Carmi To Meet Tonight in Regional Final

Harrisburg and Carmi will meet this evening for the championship of the grade school regional basketball tournament being played at Carmi.

In semi-final play Wednesday Harrisburg won from Norris City and Carmi defeated Grayville. The two losers will also play this evening for consolation honors.

The locals defeated Norris City 52-48 in a game that was close all the way. At the quarter the score was knotted 13-13 and at the half Harrisburg held a one-point advantage, 23-22. After three quarters Harrisburg was on top 38-35, with the final count 52-48.

Coach Louie Beltz used the following players: Biggs, Clark, Price, Yates, Abel, Druce and Rauh.

The last week in February the "state" grade school tourney will be played, site not selected. A meeting of coaches having teams in the meet will be held Sunday to make drawings, select the site and work out other details.

Regardless of tonight's outcome Harrisburg will be in the "state" meet as the winners and runners-up from each of the eight regionals in the southern part of Illinois are eligible for the bigger tournament.

Harrisburg and Carmi have met twice this season, each winning on their home floor. Thus tonight's game provides a rubber match.

Jed Black, Chico Vejar Battle To Boxing Draw

CHICAGO — Jed Black "made too many mistakes" to earn more than a draw in his first big time boxing venture Wednesday night, against experienced Chico Vejar, but the former Michigan State boxer wanted to "fight him again."

"I learned something," he said. "But I sure made mistakes. I knew it. All the time, I blame it on his experience. He had a lot more than I have."

Vejar, who believed he won the battle handily, agreed he had experience on the 24-year-old ex-Spartan boxing champ. But he believed that had he not lost his finer touch through a year of Army duty, he would have left no question about a victory.

It was the first draw on the record for each fighter, but it was Vejar's 63rd pro battle and Black's 29th. Vejar has been beaten four times and Black once.

Come A-Smokin' by Nelson Nye

Copyright 1953 by Nelson Nye. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Grete Marratt, a fugitive, has taken the identity of Luke Usher, a man he resembles who had disappeared after accusing Rancher Clem Ryerson of murdering his father. Marratt finds himself in immediate danger under the new identity, since the Wineglass ranch apparently had taken all of the Usher cattle and was using its land. Marratt turns down an offer of Clint Gainer to buy the ranch, even to go into partnership. And he also has a brush with Chuck Crafin, the Wineglass foreman, from whom he has rescued an Indian girl he first met in the office of Indian Agent Beckwith.

XII
The doe came driving into the yard the next morning. "Fetched you out some more vittles. How's that side coming along?" he hailed, pulling up. "Better let me have another look at it."

Marratt brushed that aside. "It's getting along well enough. I'm glad you came by though. I want to know what I owe you. I can't keep piling up expenses."

Frailey showed a mild surprise. "Well, we can figure it out, I reckon. What are you going to do? Not thinking of working the Half Circle U, are you?"

Marratt assumed that by that Frailey was referring to the Usher ranch. He said, "Any reason why I shouldn't?"

"I understood you'd been warned to clear out of the country."

"Where'd you hear that?"

"It's all over town."

"I'm staying," Marratt said with his jaws tightening grimly. "What do you know about a fellow that calls himself Clint Gainer?"

Frailey said without expression. "He owns the Boxed Triangle. A not too important spread bordering Wineglass on the west."

He sat watching Marratt for a couple of heartbeats. "Well, let's get this grub put away," he said, getting out of the buggy. "Your dad left a will with myself as administrator. Now that you've returned we can put it through probate; I've been keeping the taxes paid up for you. There's about $3500 cash, banked in Chandler. You won't be able to draw on that yet but I can let you have a couple of hundred if you'd like."

Marratt said stiffly, "If it wouldn't inconvenience you I'd be glad of the difference between that and what I owe you."

After they'd come back from packing in the groceries Frailey said, "We'll have to go to town then. Hitch your horse on behind and ride with me."

"I'll ride the horse," Marratt said, and climbed on him.

It wasn't that he didn't like Doc, because he did; but there was no use compromising the old man more than he had to. And if trouble came up he wanted to be in a position to get hold of his gun.

Also there was this matter of pride. He owed something to the man whose name and clothes he was wearing. He didn't want folks to say he'd come into Bella Loma trying to hide behind Doc Frailey.

The doe was pulling up before Danvers' General Store. Reining his gelding over to the tie rack Marratt got down and joined Frailey on the porch. We'll step in here," the latter said quietly. "I'll get a check cashed and give you that money."

"Just the difference," Marratt nodded, "between what you've offered and what I already owe you."

As they were about to move inside a deeply bronzed goddess in starched gingham, arms stacked with bundles and black hair piled against the flash of a Spanish comb, twisted gracefully through the door with a quick smile as her eyes met Frailey's.

The doctor removed his hat. "Naome," he said, "I would like for you to meet Luke Usher. Luke, this is Clem Ryerson's daughter."

Marratt started, features frozen, stopped dead in his tracks. It was the willowy "squaw" he had rescued from Crafin—the girl of Beckwith's office!

Chuk Crafin, by the time he came limping into Wineglass headquarters, was in the sod-pawing mood of an affronted bull moose. He went storming through the house banging doors like a twister and if he'd gotten his hands on Naome right then there'd have been a sure understanding of who was boss around here. He didn't find her, of course, because she'd fled to Bella Loma.

Grinding his teeth he came back into the yard and that was when he noticed the lamplit window of his shanty. Highboned cheeks still stiff with anger, he veered away from the course that would have taken him to the bunkhouse. He'd told the crew more than once to stay out of his diggings. He came into the place like a wet-footed cat and the hooded look of his eyes turned black as obsidian when he observed the gaunt shape which came out of his rocker. "What," he said roughly, "are you doin' here, Beckwith?"

Beckwith quailed from his look, thrust a hand out placatingly. "I—know you told me never to come here," he gulped, "but something terrible has happened! Where is Mr. Ryerson?"

"He's off on one of his trips, pullin' strings to get some political appointment."

"Those wretched Usher cattle!" Beckwith blurted. "Some fellow came into my office—"

"Hold it," growled Crafin, and swung around and carefully closed the door. Then he went to the windows and pulled both shades. When he came back his cheeks were like slabs of granite. "Now let's have it," he said, "and keep your voice down."

Little Work in Future Kitchen

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The kitchen of tomorrow will be so self-sufficient about the only work left for the homemaker is the meal-planning.

The future kitchen, as seen by some experts, goes beyond the push-button stage, into the time when doors will open and shut, and cabinets slide in and out of reach, with the mere wave of the hand.

Engineers planning the future cooking center still depend on some push-button controls. But a wave of the hand is all that is needed to activate an electric switch which sets some of the equipment into operation.

Kitchen cabinet doors will come equipped with touch latches, instead of knobs and handles. Doors pop open with a slight pressure on the front panel.

No Atomic Power
These effort-savers, plus several others, are incorporated in an experimental kitchen planned by General Motors and Frigidaire, to be displayed first in New York, then in Miami, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The experts haven't foreseen atomic-powered appliances. But they do say that electronic ovens are in the future. These would cook bacon in a matter of seconds, bake potatoes in five minutes and cook a family turkey in 45.

One oven in their future kitchen has a device for feeding either charcoal or hickory smoke, to flavor meats.

The planners match refrigerator and food freezer in color and height—at the waist—and equip both with push-button, sliding doors. The kitchen also features an ice-maker which will produce as much as 60 pounds daily of either cube or crushed ice.

The freezer has a new-type frozen juice dispenser, and the refrigerator has a dispenser which feeds eggs in much the same manner supermarket shelves feed canned goods. Lift out the bottom egg, and another glides into place.

As the experts foresee it, the homemaker of the future will use a photographic viewer at eye height to visualize recipes. She can flash a recipe on the viewer for easy reading.

Equipment Is Mobile
As for kitchen arrangement, that'll be pretty much up to the homemaker. Except for the sink, most of the equipment will be mobile. The planners have put a double sink in the center of the kitchen, so that it's accessible from any angle. It has a knee-hole for sit-down work.

In general, the kitchen operates with a minimum of stooping and stretching. The ovens rise from counter level to waist height at the press of a button, and both have glass doors which slide open. The food mixer and blender disappear into the counter area when not in use. Ingredients needed in the mixing center are enclosed in a wall cabinet, but move down with in easy reach with the touch of a button.

Even the flour sifter is operated by an electric motor.

10,271 Added To Relief Rolls During December

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Illinois relief rolls expanded almost 20 per cent during December, it was reported today.

The Illinois Public Aid Commission said 10,271 persons were added to the relief caseload to bring the total to 62,506.

Relief rolls generally will reflect any changes in economic activity. Normally, there is some slackening of business at the end of the year due to seasonal cutbacks.

The IPAC said its relief bill for December totaled $2,228,443, a rise of $279,650 over November. Average December payment was $35.65.

Slight declines were reported in three other IPAC programs and a small increase in another. Overall, public aid rolls totaled 249,268 cases in December, 9,853 over November.

IPAC Executive Secretary Garrett W. Keaster said, however, the overall total was down 10,765 from December, 1952, and down 18,794 from December, 1951.

Total December payments were $10,891,737, an increase of $233,667 over the previous month.

Four Clubwomen To Survey Coffee Problems in Brazil

NEW YORK (UP)—Four American clubwomen head for Brazil today with high hopes that "common sense" and "a woman's perception" can solve the coffee problem. The delegation included an Ohio grandmother, an Illinois farmer, the Maine state milk commissioner and a Michigan lawyer.

They were making the 10-day expense-free trip by plane at the invitation of the Brazilian Coffee Institute. The institute wants them to survey problems of coffee production from plantation to portside.

Sensitive to suggestions the trip will turn into a "whitewash" of their Brazilian hosts, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, Jerseyville, Ill., chairman, said the delegation is heading south with "an open mind."

The other members of the delegation are Mrs. Zaio Woodford Schroeder, Grosse Pointe, Mich.; Mrs. Gilbert F. Loebs, Waterville, Me., and Mrs. Carl E. Swanbeck, Huron, Ohio.

GETTING HER MONEY'S WORTH—When Helen Mack of Glasgow, Scotland, paid $10 to kiss screen star Errol Flynn during a Frankfurt, Germany, program to raise March of Dimes funds, she expected to get her money's worth. All she got was a brother-type peck, left, from Flynn, and she felt she was being short-changed. Grabbing the actor, right, the Scotch lassie moved in for what she called a real "Scotch kiss." All Flynn could say was, "Even if it is for the March of Dimes, I am selling myself too cheaply."

Coffee, Butter Worry Congressmen's Wives, Too

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Like you and I, Congressmen's wives have home-making headaches. Stockings that snag and run, for instance.

Coffee prices? Yes, but also the high price tag on butter. Mrs. Robert H. Mollohan's Representative husband from West Virginia is supporting subsidies for the farmer. But like other housewives, Mrs. Mollohan wants to know why butter costs what it does.

Mrs. Spessard Holland thinks that paying a dollar for a pound of butter is bad enough. But what really upsets the wife of the Senator from Florida is to open the butter and find that it's rancid. "I've complained about this since World War II," she declares.

Mrs. John Ray, whose spouse is a Representative from New York, keeps her butter bill down by using half margarine and half butter.

On the subject of stockings Mrs. Holland really sounds off. "I heard one manufacturer say he could make a pair that would last a lifetime," she declares. "It's time women used their power. Women have power, if for no other reason than that there are more of us than there are men." As far as Mrs. Holland is concerned, one way to do something about nylons not wearing is boycott them.

"It doesn't seem to make any difference whether you buy expensive or cheap hose," observes the wife of Kentucky's Rep. John M. Robison, Jr. The mileage, it appears, is about the same.

These congressional wives are members of "Housewives United," a non-partisan group of homemakers. As such they compare notes on consumer sticklers and possible solutions to them.

A kind of unpaid lobby which works for the housewife, HU boasts some 600 members in more than 40 states.

Currently, HU President Mrs. Louis Wright is busy lining up a woman to act as a sponsor for each state. Her job will be to drum up interest among women in that state on today's consumer problems, for instance on the butter, coffee and stocking situation.

According to Mrs. Wright, "Housewives United" intends to make a thorough study of the "whys" behind the butter and coffee prices as well as the short-life expectancy of milady's nylons.

Mrs. Holland is bubbling with enthusiasm for HU's present platform.

"No one," declares the Senator's wife, "should be too busy to take her citizenship seriously. Women have a duty to keep themselves informed."

Another pat on the back for the HU group comes from Mrs. Mollohan. "When one person speaks out it gives others the courage to do the same thing," she believes.

The congressional spouses are in on the coffee pot tempest, too. Says Sen. Holland's wife: "I find myself using less coffee. Not drinking less. But being more careful how I measure it."

Rep. Mollohan's wife: "We have quit drinking coffee."

Rep. Ray's wife is all for Housewives United investigating the matter.

Rep. Robison's wife: "I was shocked when I bought a half pound the other day and it cost 53 cents."

Rep. Sam Con's wife of Oregon: "We're drinking milk. Besides it's a good way to help the American dairy industry."

Before "Housewives United" even thinks about boycotting coffee, they want to study the problem. Encouraging trade between nations has always been HU policy.

"However," points out President Wright, "we must think of the housewife, too. In spite of wanting to be friendly, we can't afford to be foolish."

RUDEMENT

Church services were held here Sunday morning and Sunday night with the pastor, Rev. Earl Vaughn, bringing the message. One joined the church at the evening services.

CARE Proposes Surplus Food for World Hungry

NEW YORK UP—CARE, the organization which sends food abroad, suggested today that the nation's surplus farm commodities be channeled through private American agencies to the hungry peoples of the world.

In an analysis to be presented to Congress, Paul Comly French, executive director of the organization, said the program could be financed by a combination of "savings in storage fees; private negotiations with recipient countries to pay as much of the costs as they can; some fund-raising among the American people; as CARE has often done, and direct congressional appropriations to fill the gap, as part of the nation's international friendship program."

French said normal American farm exports could be protected through the channeling of surplus foods to refugees and other blocks of distressed persons, to those entirely without income to buy the products, and to special groups such as undernourished mothers and children, sick, aged and unemployed.

The report suggested that the use of farm surpluses in this way would eventually open new markets for American farmers by improving the health of the recipient, thereby increasing their productivity so they could afford to buy more American products. It suggested further that the use of private agencies would cut through much of the red tape of government operations and would remove any possible charge of political meddling with the food distribution.

To Invite Truman to Address Illinois Young Democrats

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Former President Harry S. Truman was invited to address the state convention of the Illinois Young Democrats held this spring, it was reported today.

Officers of the Sangamon County Young Democrats said U. S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) also will be invited to speak. The convention will be held April 30 and May 1.

ROCKING-CHAIR REFLECTIONS—Mrs. Lorinda Ferguson Bailey sits in a rocker at her Marion, Iowa, home and reflects on the 108 years of her life. Her parents took her to eastern Iowa from Ohio in a covered wagon when she was a child. She now makes her home with Mrs. Rex Harrison, one of her six living children. Married twice, she has lost count of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

One Out of 48 Working Women in Illinois is Employed as a Nurse

If you know 48 working women, one of them should be a nurse, according to statistics compiled by the American Nurses' association. In Illinois, however, one woman out of 48 who are employed is a nurse, Miss June A. Ramsey, executive secretary of the Illinois State Nurses' association, said today.

The average professional nurse is younger than the average working woman, is probably married, and is most likely to be found at work in a hospital.

This statistical picture of the nation's registered nurses is revealed in "Facts About Nursing," published recently by the ANA. The booklet compiles current figures about nurses, nursing and selected health facilities.

There are 334,733 active registered nurses in the United States, roughly about one for every 470 persons. But nurses, like other health personnel, are not located in direct proportion to the population. People in four New England states and the District of Columbia can count on the services of at least 300 active professional nurses for every 100,000 persons. In six southern states there are only 75-124 nurses for 100,000 persons.

Young Age Average
 Illinois is in the median group with 175-249 nurses per 100,000 population, Miss Ramsey said. Illinois has a total of 21,240 nurses and a reserve of 15,619 inactive registered nurses.

The nation's nurses are young. The largest number, 36 per cent, are between the ages of 20-29. The median age for all employed registered nurses is 35.6 as compared to the median age, set by the U. S. census data, of 36.4 years for all employed women in the country. Nurses are younger than other working women on the average, although in 26 states and territories, including Illinois, they cannot enter their profession until they are 20 years old.

Although at one time nursing was considered a "spinster's profession," this is no longer the case as most of the R. N.'s, 56.2 per cent, are or have been married.

Almost half of the nation's employed nurses, 48.7 per cent, are employed by hospitals. In the nation, 20.9 per cent are self-employed and work directly for patients as private duty nurses, while in Illinois 27.8 per cent of the total are private duty nurses.

Illinois has 7.6 per cent of its nurses in public health work, as compared with 8.8 per cent in the nation, and 5 per cent of the state's nurses work in offices as compared with 8.4 per cent in the nation.

Volunteer for Red Cross Work
 The state has a higher percentage of industrial nurses than the nation with 5.4 per cent of its total nurses as compared with a national percentage of 4.3 per cent.

Last month, 10,299 professional nurses in the U. S. were caring for members of the armed forces and every month about 4,000 registered professional nurses volunteer their services in Red Cross work. About half of the nation's employed nurses belong to their professional organization, the American Nurses' association, and more than half of the state nurses belong to the Illinois State Nurses' association.

Copies of "Facts About Nursing" may be ordered from the American Nurses' association, Two Park avenue, New York 16, N. Y.

Last Survivor Of Union Army Is 107 Friday

DULUTH, Minn.—Albert Woolson, the "rear guard for Abe Lincoln's army," celebrates his 107th birthday Friday and plans to spend the day re-telling his favorite stories of life in Civil War days.

Woolson, the last surviving member of the Union army of the Civil War, has looked forward eagerly to his birthday party and the guests it will bring to listen to his stories. The postman has been busy for days bringing hundreds of greetings to Woolson, and Friday 16 family members will gather for his party. He expects about 30 close friends to drop by also to wish him "Happy Birthday."

Woolson's face still is free of wrinkles. Still spry, he gets about the house under his own power and climbs stairs without help. His one handicap is that he is almost totally deaf and visitors must print questions on a tablet he keeps handy.

Stops Recordings

Last February he shoveled snow off the sidewalk so the postman wouldn't have to wade through drifts to deliver his birthday greetings. But his daughter, Mrs. John Kobus, ruled that out this year. She also stopped his practice of making anniversary recordings on his birthday because he gets excited when talking on a microphone.

Woolson enlisted in the Union army at the age of 16 as the "drummer boy for Company C." On occasion he still likes to grab his drumsticks and tap out a lively Civil War march.

Guests at his party are apt to hear one of his favorite stories—the hanging of 38 Sioux Indians in Mankato, Minn., in 1862.

On the day of the hanging, he says, several ladies arrived in Mankato from Boston and asked to see the Indians that were to be hanged.

He chuckles when he recalls how one of the women fainted when she saw Chief Little Crow sitting cross-legged, dressed in full war paint.

Woolson became the last survivor of the Union army last March when James Hard, 111, died in Rochester, N. Y.

Household Hints

A cotton-tipped swab stick is a handy gadget for cleaning dust and smudges from the number plate of the dial telephone.

Add a sprinkle of brown sugar to gravy which has been over-salted. The sugar will kill the salty taste but will not make the gravy taste sweet.

One cup of sweet milk becomes the equivalent of one cup of sour or buttermilk when one-half teaspoon of soda is added.

Don't throw away argyle socks too worn for wear. Cut off the long-ribbed tops for use in buffing shoes, or polishing and scrubbing bathroom and kitchen fixtures.

To remove iodine stains from linens, rub the stained areas with a slice of lemon.

A nut pick is a handy addition to the sewing basket. The blunt end is ideal for turning belts, while the sharp end can be used to pull out corners after the belt is turned. The pick also is handy for removing basting stitches.

In pressing corduroy, iron on the wrong side of the fabric. You'll protect the pile if you put a turkish towel on the ironing board, under the material.

Always wash egg stains in cold water.

When preparing gelatin dishes, remember the gelatin mixture should be chilled to the consistency of an unbeaten egg white before the ingredients are added. Then the solids will remain evenly distributed.

A non-abrasive cleaning powder on a soft damp cloth will clean starch from an iron.

Delicate curtains can be washed safely if they first are basted into muslin bags.

Heavy School Building Programs to Continue

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—Walter D. Cocking, editor of School Executive Magazine, told a recent meeting of the School Business Officials Association here that the multi-million-dollar school-building program, in progress throughout the nation since the end of World War II, will continue.

In 1952, Cocking said, more than 6,000 elementary and high schools were built around the country at a cost of $1,400,000,000. In addition, some $800,000,000 was spent for new college and university buildings.

"This year we'll exceed the amount and continue the rapid rate of school construction until 1958," he added.

(SIU)—In lieu of part of his pay, the early teacher often "boarded round," staying with each family somewhat in proportion to the number of pupils in that family.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!
MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Exclusively Yours: Groucho Marx's ex-wife, Kay Gorcey, is preparing to resume her singing career under the name of Kay Marx. She warmed up for the first time as a warbler on the Hollywood junket to Korea, but drew little attention from reporters intrigued with Terry Moore's ermine scinties.

George Sanders' caustic quip about the Gabor Sister act that failed to light up the sky in Las Vegas may not help along a reconciliation with Zsa Zsa. Sanders summed up the Gabor nitery antics with:

"It's the first time in history three hens laid one egg."

It's definite that Jackie Gleason's TV show moves to Hollywood permanently this spring. . . . Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, reconciled last week, are battling again. Dale Robertson is going all out to change his Jacqueline's mind about a divorce. He succeeded once before.

Attorneys for Guy Madison and Gail Russell will soon be huddling on the divorce blueprint. Sidelight on the recent legal order for Gail to seek psychiatric care is that Paramount once offered to foot her bills if she would check into the Menninger Clinic. Gail refused and was subsequently dropped by the studio.

IN GOLDWYN'S CORNER
I'm still in Samuel Goldwyn's corner about movie censorship despite protests from many readers. Goldwyn believes the censorship code is antiquated and so do I. But before you "irate" letter writers slip cyanide in my tea, let me REPEAT: I'm in favor of modernizing the code ONLY if Hollywood and theaters agree to put "For Adults Only" restrictions on movies too spicy for the kids.

Jane Russell's still pointing about zippy shots she thinks RKO should have left out of "The French Line." She went as far as she ever wants to go on the screen, she says, in the courtroom scene of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." "There were censorable shots in that picture, too," she tells it, "but they were tossed in a basket marked 'Bad Taste' before the film's release."

Sign of the times: TV's Gale Storm decorates more fan magazine covers—seven—this month than any movie star.

Hollywood censors are alerted about Seymour Nebenzal's forthcoming movie, "The Facts of Life." Kinsey could have written it. . . . MGM is rushing prints of Ronald Reagan's "Prisoner of War" for March release to cash in on the headlines. . . . Goodman Ace is trying to buy back rights to "I Married a Woman," a screenplay hawker sold to RKO but still on the shelf. NBC is interested in the property as a Peter Lawford vehicle for TV.

BETTER MEDICINE
Better than a photostatic copy of her health graph is the word from Boston that Bette Davis is well enough to breeze into the drama tryout city about once a month, catch all the plays, then dash back to her Maine home.

Typographical error in the call sheet of Alfred Hitchcock's picture, "Rear Window," has Paramount employees giggling. It came out as "Hitchcock's Rear."

Susan Hayward's in for a surprise when Jess Barker's court fight for full custody of their twin sons comes up. He'll produce about 10 witnesses to back him up on certain claims.

Latest Hollywood feudists: Ty Power's wife, Linda, and James Mason's Pamela. Eyewitnesses say they just skirted the hairpulling stage in a movietown-party incident.

Dorothy Shay's telling it: A group of Boy Scouts helped out by acting as wounded citizens in a mock air raid. The first-aid squad got behind in its schedule and one little Cub Scout waited to be rescued for over an hour. When the first-aid squad finally arrived, they found a note where the boy should have been. It read: "I had to get home so I died."

U. S. is Rich in Lithium, Key Hydrogen Material

WASHINGTON (NEA)—This country is rich in a key material of the hydrogen era.

The material is lithium, lightest of metals. A check at the Bureau of Mines today disclosed that the United States has big reserves of it.

Lithium is doubly important in the manufacture of hydrogen bombs. It is a raw material from which is produced one prime ingredient (tritium) of H-bombs, and is believed to be a prime ingredient itself in at least one version of the super weapon.

This soft, silvery metal, similar in appearance and chemical conduct to sodium, would be important even if there was no H-bomb. It has many industrial uses, particularly in the manufacture of ceramics, glass, enamels, and greases.

According to the Bureau of Mines, there is enough lithium in this country, not to mention other free nations, to satisfy all atomic and commercial demands in the foreseeable future.

(SIU)—At the end of early day church services the boys often lined up beside the aisle girls were required to pass to leave the church. The boys performed the "May I see you home?" ritual. If the girl said no, the boy was said to have been "sacked."
